my statements will be regarded by you with some consideration. I take the liberty of giving you the information in may possession and of suggesting, most respectfully, the propriety and necessity of establishing a pony express or mail line between Fort Bridger and these mines.

I have read many letters, and have seen and conversed with many persons direct from the mines during the past Winter, and am fully satisfied from the concurrent testimony of all, and from the amount of gold seen in their possession, that the mines are very rich, that the gold is of a su-crior quality, causily procured, and sprend over a large area, and that the region in which the mines are situated is well adapted to agriculture and grazing, and that it is the region in which the mines are situated is well adapted to agriculture and grazing, and that it is market has been active and buyyed, and prices are [3]. The market has been active and buyyed, and prices are [4]. The market has been active and buyyed, and prices are [4]. The market has been active and buyyed, and that it is well watered and heavily timbered. The discovery of these mines has produced much excitement throughout the country. Large parties are now of the road to this point from Denver City and its vicinity. Numbers are fitting out here and in Salt Lake City, and from the information I have received with a still advancing tendency. The adherical quotations have will be a very heavy immigration from the towns along the Missouri River. There are already between seven and eight hundred persons at work in the mines, and accessions are daily being made to their numbers.
